

Thieu truce nixed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House refused today to support South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu's proposal for a temporary Christmas holiday cease-fire, saying it wanted to be associated with only one truce plan.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said a report from Paris that the United States had asked the Viet Cong and North Vietnam to go along with Thieu's offer for a holiday cease-fire was "taken out of context."

"We have a proposal now being negotiated on a cease-fire," Ziegler said. "We support no other proposals on a cease-fire."

Ziegler made the comments after President Nixon met from 8 a.m. to noon MST in his oval office with his Vietnam negotiator, Henry A. Kissinger, who returned Wednesday from 10 days of private peace talks in Paris with Le Duc Tho, his counterpart from Hanoi who also returned home.

Ziegler spelled out the U.S. position to clarify reports from Paris, but stressed that the White House was not ruling out a traditional Christmas cease-fire by both sides in the war.

Thieu, in an address Tuesday to the South Vietnamese National Assembly, proposed a temporary cease-fire during which North and South Vietnam as well as the Viet Cong might begin separate peace negotiations. He said that such a truce could be extended beyond the holidays if the parties made progress.

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong almost immediately announced their absolute opposition to Thieu's proposal. But this was the first time the White House had commented. Ziegler declined to say whether Nixon had informed Thieu of the U.S. position, on grounds that he could not discuss communications between Washington and South Vietnam.

Also present at today's White House meeting was Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., Kissinger's deputy. He flew back from Paris last weekend to give the President an interim briefing on the negotiations.

Taking sample

Apollo flight heading home

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 17's astronauts ended man's first exploration of another world today, their moonship packed with secrets of the past and a legacy left behind for the future.

"As we leave the moon," said commander Eugene A. Cernan, "we leave as we came — and, God willing, we shall return — with peace and hope for all mankind."

The three-day tour of the dusty, washboard floor of the Taurus-Littrow Valley was the last U.S. manned expedition now planned beyond the orbit of Earth. It was perhaps the last trip to the moon in the 20th century.

Cernan and Schmitt were scheduled to take off aboard the trusty spacecraft Challenger at 3:56 p.m. MST to rejoin Ronald E. Evans in the orbiting command ship America. The pilots will spend two more days mapping the moon from orbit before beginning their quarter-million mile journey back home.

Cernan, a three-time space veteran, predicted: "history will record that America and Challenger have forged the destiny for tomorrow."

Staying behind as an eternal monument to man's bold venture out into the solar system was the bottom, four-legged section of Challenger with a black-rimmed aluminum plaque fixed to its side.

"Here man completed his first exploration of the moon, December, 1972, A.D.," the plaque said. "May the spirit of peace in which we came be reflected in the lives of all mankind." It was signed by the three astronauts and President Nixon.

A 22-mile web of moon buggy tracks etched in the coal-black dust of the mountain-rimmed valley remained as everlasting evidence of the unprecedented exploration by the final man of Apollo. "This valley of history has seen mankind complete its first evolutionary steps into the universe, leaving the planet Earth and going forward into the universe," Schmitt said before he and Cernan boarded Challenger for the last time at 12:42 a.m.

"I can think of no more significant contribution that Apollo has made to history," said the first scientist to fly in space.

Twelve Americans have walked the moon since Apollo 11's epic landing July 20, 1969. The United States has no plans to return, but NASA Administrator James G. Fletcher said he hoped Americans will go back in the mid-1980s, possibly working side by side with Russia.

During three surface excursions totaling a record 22 hours and 5 minutes, Cernan and Schmitt produced what scientists predicted will be the most significant information on the moon since the landing of Apollo 11.

Stored in Challenger was a record haul of an estimated 275 pounds of what may be the oldest rocks ever returned from the moon, and the youngest — spanning the time scale from more than 4 billion years to perhaps as recently in geologic terms as 1 billion years.

Pocatello bank seeks TF branch

TWIN FALLS — The Pocatello-based Idaho Bank and Trust is seeking to establish a branch in Twin Falls.

Robert Montgomery, executive vice president of the firm, said in Twin Falls Wednesday the state-chartered bank has applied to the Idaho State Department of Finance for approval for the Twin Falls branch.

If approved, the new bank would be the fifth in Twin Falls.

Montgomery would not disclose the expected location of the bank, but did say it would be located "downtown."

He said the Idaho Bank and Trust is the fourth largest bank in the state with nine per cent of all bank deposits in the state.

"We're very much interested in the Twin Falls area," he said. "It has good potential for economic growth."

(Related story, p. 3)

He said his bank was confident there is a need for an additional bank in Twin Falls.

Although he stopped short of predicting reduced interest rates, he did say increased banking competition "certainly is a deciding factor in the structure of interest rates."

Montgomery said he hoped for favorable action by the state on the application within 30 to 60 days. Following that, the branch would require additional approval from federal banking authorities.

He said the four existing Twin Falls banks would be asked for comment on the proposal by the state.

Truman reported weaker

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman, 88, slipped into "very serious" condition today. His heart was weak, he slept restlessly and did not respond when his doctors spoke to him.

President Truman is very serious, but vital signs remain fairly stable, said his personal physician at Research Hospital, Dr. Wallace H. Graham. "Therefore, he is not critical."

More fluid collected in his lungs and he suffered advanced kidney blockage.

Truman's daughter said she was not as optimistic as she had been about her father's condition.

Graham said the former chief executive "had a restless night sleeping at short intervals."

He did not respond to verbal stimuli during the night, Graham said. "Elud continues to collect in his right lung. Kidney output remains adequate but is declining. He continues to tolerate his tube feeding well."

Graham ordered the protein level of a liquid nutrient increased to give Truman more strength.

Tax relief 'state role'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A

commission representing federal, state and local governments voted today to advise President Nixon that the states should retain primary responsibility for property tax relief policy and for equalizing school finances within each state.

It was the first vote taken by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, which was asked by Nixon last January to study school finance reform, particularly a value added tax, as a substitute for property taxes. The recommendation was approved by voice vote after two hours of discussion.

A commission staff report said home owners generally were not overburdened by residential property taxes except in some states.

John Shannon, assistant director of the commission's staff in charge of school study, said New York, Wisconsin and Vermont were among states where the tax situation was tight.

He acknowledged that a survey taken for the commission showed property taxes were regarded as the least fair of all levies but said many protesting home owners were objecting to what was a tax on "unrealized capital gains" in the value of a house they had no intention of selling.

Stale air over Idaho

TWIN FALLS — An air stagnation advisory is in effect for southern Idaho today.

The condition results from a high pressure system and low wind speeds. It is expected to continue through Friday afternoon, according to the National Weather Service.

As a result, poor conditions for dispersal of air pollutants in valley areas led the Department of Environment and Health to notify major industries to cut down one-third on pollutants entering the air if levels reach 375 micrograms per cubic meter.

However, in Twin Falls today, the measured level was 131 micrograms, well below that figure. But dispersal conditions were listed as poor with little prospect for improvement.

Open burning is prohibited by the department until the condition clears.

Snake, Salmon floods spreading behind ice

By United Press International

Civil defense crews worked through the morning today sandbagging homes in the community of Riverside near Blackfoot, as waters continued to overflow the banks of the ice-clogged Snake River.

In Blackfoot, 28 families had to be evacuated from their mobile homes along with 15 other families as the river continued to freeze in an Arctic chill which has brought record breaking low temperatures to most of the state.

In the southwestern part of the state, the Payette County sheriff's department and reserve units were called out Wednesday night to help with evacuation efforts in Idaho and the Oregon side of the Snake.

About 25 families were evacuated in Annex, Ore., and the state's National Guard has been put on alert because of more threatened flooding.

The river runs along the Oregon-Idaho border and continues west to east across Idaho.

In eastern Idaho the ice-jammed Salmon River caused flooding in Salmon after Warm Springs Creek backed up and covered Main Street with four inches of water.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said he is being briefed hourly on the freezing conditions on the Snake and Salmon rivers. The spokesman said no requests for emergency help have been received from city or county officials.

But the governor's spokesman said it helps requested there would be no delay in declaring an extreme state of emergency.

State help only hope for manning classrooms

By RICHARD G. HIGH
Times-News managing editor

TWIN FALLS — An increase in state aid is the best hope offered by supporters of more elementary classrooms for Twin Falls schools. School officials and members of a citizens committee trying to draft a construction proposal say there is little chance that the Twin Falls district can raise the $12,000 needed to operate each new elementary classroom added to the district.

Without the state money, they say, new classrooms added by a bond issue would lie vacant, a prospect they say would doom the bond issue.

Key legislators say the Twin Falls school can expect large increases in state funding in the future. But they are unsure whether the increases will be large enough to save the Twin Falls bond issue.

Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, and Sen.

Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, co-chairman of the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee, estimate that state support of local school districts will rise by at least 10 per cent a year.

Sen. John M. Barker, R-Buhl, chairman of the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee, believes the long term growth may be slightly lower, citing 5-10 per cent annual increases.

Significantly, the figures given by the legislators are about twice as high as the Twin Falls school officials' estimates of school cost increases. According to Supt. George Staudaher, annual operating costs should rise between three and five per cent per year.

Were these estimates correct, the school district could count on some extra state money being available to man new classrooms.

State money currently accounts for about half of the district's $3 million general fund budget. Should the school district's operating costs rise at five per cent, while state aid rose at 10 per cent, there would be about $75,000 per year generated in state revenue above the level of cost increases.

After four years, should such funding increases materialize, the extra money needed to operate the 24 new classrooms proposed by the Twin Falls citizens committee would be available.

Additional factors discussed by the legislators make the prospects for state funding even rosier.

One factor expected to have an immediate impact on schools is the arrival of federal revenue sharing funds.

According to Sen. High, recurring revenue sharing funds, amounting to about $6.7 million a year, should be put in the state's general fund, a view shared by Roberts and Barker.

This would provide several million dollars a year above the normal increase in revenue available to schools.

The revenue sharing funds could have a further, indirect impact, according to Sen. Barker.

He said increase in sales tax revenues that had been scheduled to be given directly to the cities and counties to make up for lost inventory taxes can now be frozen at the $4.7 million level of Jan. 1, 1972.

The additional money that would have gone to local government could then be diverted directly to the schools. Lost revenues to the local governmental units would be made up by revenue sharing income, Barker said.

Another possibility for increased money for the Twin Falls schools is from movement toward equalization of tax support for schools throughout the state.

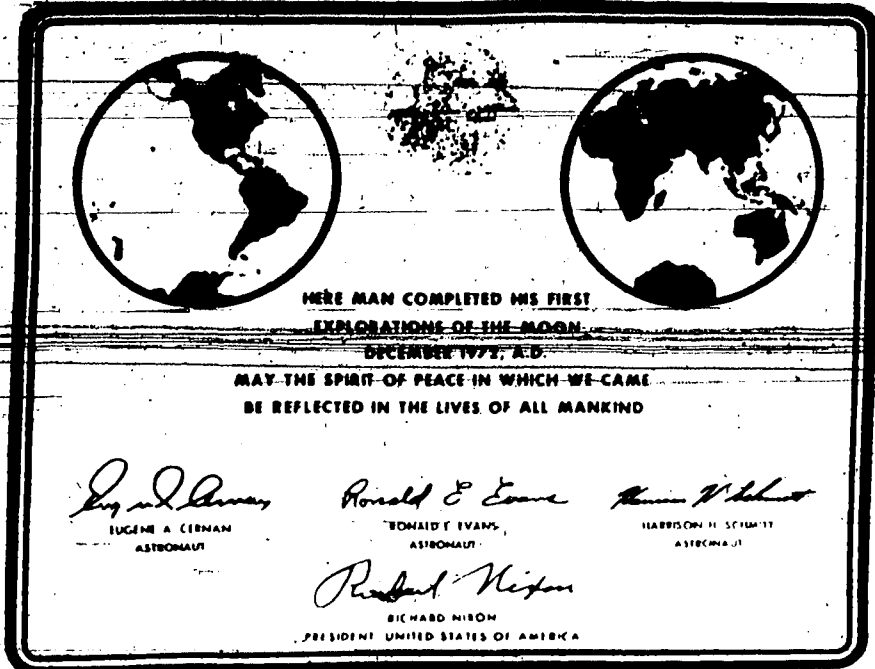

Because the Twin Falls School district has less property value backing each student than most other districts, it stands to gain through school income redistribution, according to Sen. Barker.

Barker said he expects some movement toward further equalization this year, followed by further movement in future years.

According to Rep. Roberts, the legislators are more likely to approve such equalization measures when there is additional money — such as revenue sharing funds — available to be distributed.

The additional money softens the blow to legislators whose home districts could lose through redistribution.

Plaque left on moon by astronauts

Moon exploration ends

The old rocks, from two massive mountains, may represent pieces of the primitive lunar crust. The young samples are expected to include specimens of volcanic ash that rained down from the moon's dying gasps.

But the prize of the mission is a bag of soil from an apparent volcano discovered when Schmitt just happened to kick the rim of an interesting-looking crater during the second moonwalk Tuesday night.

Scientists were anxious to get the samples to their laboratories to confirm their expectations.

"It's been an extremely successful mission and we're elated about that," said Dr. Robin W. Brett, chief geochemist at the Manned Spacecraft Center. "But realizing that it's the last one is a very bittersweet feeling."

"It's very, very sad," said Dr. Noel W. Hinners, chief scientist for the $25 billion project that pushed back the frontiers of the solar system. "We're just learning where to go up there."

Near the end of their final 7 hour and 15 minute tour of the dusty valley, Cernan and Schmitt stood next to the Stars and Stripes, saluted America and said the Apollo project has given mankind a challenge for the future.

"The door is now cracked, but the promise of the future lies in the young people, not just in America, but the young people all over the world learning to love and learning to work together," Cernan said.

Schmitt picked up a rock made up of countless fragments of others and handed it to his colleague who promised to share it with other peoples of the world.

"We hope that this will be a symbol of what our feelings are, what the feelings of the Apollo program are and a symbol of mankind that we can live in peace and harmony in the future," Cernan said.

The astronauts were tired from straining against the resistance of their pressurized spacesuits during their outing, but they were exuberant when they returned to the spacecraft and satisfied with the job they had done.

It was, said Flight Director M. Pete Frank, "a fine way to end a very fine program."

An hour after returning to Challenger, the pilots opened the hatch and tossed out their oxygen backpacks and other moonwalk gear they no longer would need.

"I think we ought to mention that we are jettisoning two sets of EVA (extra vehicular activity) gloves," Cernan said. "I think that's worth mentioning because they did their job just like everything else did the job."

Before entering Challenger, Cernan parked their trusty electric car for the final time and aimed its television camera toward the four-legged ship the pilots called home for three days.

Besides televising today's blastoff, the camera is expected to operate for several more days and, hopefully, will show the "crash" of the lander's takeoff stage after it is jettisoned from lunar orbit shortly before midnight.

The astronauts also left behind a nuclear-powered science station designed to study the lunar environment for years. All of the instruments except one—a gravity wave meter—were working normally.

The pilots also planted eight explosive charges during their

TWIN FALLS - A Boise banker Wednesday told Twin Falls Rotarians they can expect a "rosy" national economic expansion during 1973.

Robert Montgomery, executive vice president of the Idaho Bank and Trust Co., said "the consumer will be the star performer of the economic expansion of 1973."

He said a combination of factors may cause consumer spending to jump 9.3 per cent over 1972 to $747 billion, "the largest one-year jump in consumption of the post-World War II period."

Consumer spending will result from general optimism at the prospect of Vietnam War settlement, a large reservoir of cash reserves, improved ability to borrow, continued rise in real income, increased Social Security benefits, higher wage rates, more workers and fewer unemployed and abnormally large tax refunds.

"Generally," he said, "1973 is slated for enormous economic and business expansion, coming on the heels of substantial gains in 1972."

He said economists predict 1973 will see:

- a 9 1/2 per cent rise in gross national product;
- a continued rise in corporate profits of about 13 per cent;
- a moderate reduction in unemployment, and addition of 2.2 million new jobs;
- relatively low rate of inflation of about 3 1/2 per cent, and
- higher interest rates.

Montgomery cautioned, however, that businessmen face challenges of an increased tempo in collective bargaining, stiff competition from imported goods, a thinning labor market which could make qualified workers more difficult to hire and uncertainties of the "changing rules of the Price Commission, Pay Board and other control bodies."

He stressed the danger of "overstimulation of an expanding economy" posed by federal deficit spending.

Montgomery, who said he is a Democrat, supported President Nixon's plan to hold federal spending this year to a $250 billion ceiling.

He cautioned that deficits for the four-year period ending in fiscal 1973 could amount to $75 billion, "far exceeding any comparable period with the exception of the World War II years of 1943-1946."

He argued that several factors impede tight control of federal spending, including "regional" political influences which give "every congressman and senator compelling reasons why spending should not be cut in their particular area."

Further, he said, long-range governmental commitments have been made in many program areas, such as education, health, income security, which "require higher outlays just to maintain the programs," leaving about 70 per cent of the budget "uncontrollable."

Finally the banker suggested that interest rates for 1973 "will definitely be higher than those of 1971 and 1972 because of higher demand for funds, slower growth in the supply of funds, tighter monetary policies, and possible renewed concern for inflation."

It was reported that $87.75 was made at the bazaar held at the recent IOOF smorgasbord dinner. The family Christmas party will be held at 8 p.m. Dec. 16 in the IOOF Hall with Santa Claus to bring treats for all.

Teacher pay not on list

TWIN FALLS - The head of a teacher negotiating team said Wednesday he does not expect to negotiate Twin Falls teacher salaries for this year.

Instead, according to Gordon Armstrong, vice president of the Twin Falls Education Association (TFEA), are expected to focus on procedural matters, putting off until the future bargaining over salaries.

"We're oriented toward procedural negotiations rather than salary negotiations at this time. But if teachers want us to initiate any other negotiations this is their right and their prerogative."

He said the approach taken by his committee this year is lower key than that used last year.

The reason for the changed approach, he said, has resulted from a "change in people."

Armstrong's team's negotiations have not yet begun this year, pending teacher indications that the TFEA is their chosen bargaining agent.

A similar TFEA negotiating team failed to reach agreement on procedural matters with school district representatives after year-long negotiations last year.

According to Armstrong, "I'm positive that we'll succeed this year. They were close last year."

He declined to say what the procedural issues were that had been negotiated last year.

He said the reason for the slow pace last year was the importance of the procedural agreements.

"It was a landmark. The board wants it to be right for the community, the teachers, them. The teachers want it good. It will get the stage."

"We're looking mainly to the future, not to this particular year."

Armstrong sees the teacher negotiator's role as that of making useful suggestions to the board.

"I feel they (the school trustees) have certain perimeters they work within. I don't think we can go down there and say you do this and this and this or we'll do this and this and this."

"Teachers are well trained. They can offer suggestions."

MV agency hears talk by teacher

TWIN FALLS - Gail Mauthe, Boise, scheduled speaker for the Magic Valley Association for Retarded Children, was unable to attend the Tuesday evening meeting.

Weather conditions prevented Mauthe from being at the meeting held in the Robert Stuart School. An executive board meeting was held prior to the regular meeting in the Child Development Center.

Larry Lewis, head teacher of the special education classes, discussed the current program at the school.

The annual Christmas program of the school will be held Dec. 20.

The January meeting of the Magic Valley Association for Retarded Children will be held Jan. 9 in Rupert. A speaker will talk on insurance.

The U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., opened Oct. 10, 1845.

President Truman

To millions of voters — those under 30 certainly — former President Truman was a figure out of the dim past. He left the White House 20 years ago.

Younger voters cannot remember the dramatic ending of World War II in the Pacific when General MacArthur accepted the Japanese surrender on the battleship Missouri. Nor the atomic bombing of two Japanese cities — Hiroshima and Nagasaki — which brought the war to a close.

But to millions of others those dramatic events, including the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, seem like something that happened relatively recently. And older voters also well remember that it was under President Truman that the foreign aid programs, which are now becoming less and less productive, were started.

Again, as has been the case so often in the past, the nation has only one ex-president aside from President Truman. That is Lyndon B. Johnson. American Presidents are never young when they enter office and seldom live as long as Truman after they leave the White House.

It is this circumstance that gave rise to the frequently heard charge that the office is a killer and shortens the lives of those who assume it. But statistics show that they live to a normal age or beyond.

Most men who achieve the Presidency seem to thrive under the spotlight and demands of the White House. Harry S. Truman was no exception.

Sic Transit Gloria

Time and political tides wait for no man, not even the professionals of the youth movement.

Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman, household words since the 1968 Democratic convention became the Battle of Chicago, have now been read out of their very own Youth International party.

Taking a dim view of high speaking fees and other lucrative pursuits, Yuppies convening at Columbus, Ohio, recently voted to oust the pair.

It is not only a case of using the movement for personal gain but, according to a Yippie spokesman, of Hoffman, now a ripe 35, and Rubin, 34, becoming "more like the ruling class in their old age."

MR. SPECTATOR

Bill Of Rights

If you have been fretting about the whereabouts of the constitutional amendments — well, relax. They are bedded down for posterity in our national archives.

Many people forgot about the originals of the amendments some years ago in a preservation fuss over the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence. Much to do was made when these priceless papers were transferred from the Library of Congress to the Archives.

The six leaves of the two historic documents were placed in an armored car and paraded with great pomp to their new home. At nighttime, a specially built elevator lowers them out of sight and into the confines of a 50-ton safe.

The first amendments or the Bill of Rights — got the same treatment, although these were taken from the Library of Congress to the Archives ahead of the Constitution and the Declaration.

The First Amendment became effective Dec. 15, 1791, and dealt with freedom of religion, speech, press and the right of petition.

The other nine in the Bill of Rights largely also dealt with the rights of the citizens.

But what of the others?

The 11th Amendment declared that the judicial powers of the United States are not to extend to suits against a state.

The 12th set the method of electing the president and vice president. Slavery was prohibited in the 13th Amendment.

Citizenship was defined in the 14th and also concerned the privileges of citizens. The right of certain citizens to vote was taken up in the 15th.

The 16th, effective in 1913, authorized income taxes. The 17th provided for direct election of senators by the people instead of by state legislatures. The 18th Amendment brought prohibition to the land. The 21st Amendment buried the 18th.

The 19th gave women the right to vote. The 20th moved up presidential inaugural time from March 4 to Jan. 20 and set the meeting time of a newly-elected Congress at Jan. 3.

The 22nd limits presidents to two terms. The 23rd extended the vote to residents of the District of Columbia in presidential elections. The 24th barred the poll tax in federal elections. The 25th made some changes in succession in case of presidential disability.

The 26th Amendment lowered the voting age to 18 years.

Governors of the other 49 states will read it and weep, but New Mexico has done it again. For the third time in four years the state expects a sizable general fund surplus in the year which ends next June 30.

When the legislature meets in January, it will be faced once again with the problem of what to do with more money than was expected to pour into state coffers. Most of New Mexico's revenue is produced by income and sales taxes and the state's percentage of personal income rise is one of the highest in the nation.

A few more years of this performance and New Mexico either is going to have to learn how other states develop spending programs or reduce taxes. In an age of credit financing it is downright embarrassing to pay bills and still have cash left over. Oh, happy day — for New Mexicans.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE:

Many people lead their lives the way they watch TV. Even though the program isn't as good as they would like it, they are too lazy to get up and change it.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It is society, only to learn that it not to diminish the problems of the still disadvantaged to contend, as some astute young men in this town are doing, that the deeper problems of this and perhaps all western society are the dilemmas which come with affluence.

For a long, long time, we in this country, especially, assumed that the development of our obvious natural riches and the spreading of this wealth over more and more people would bring us into some sort of trouble-free zone of living.

The brutally painful lesson of this age is that it has not worked out this way at all. We have gained affluence as has no other society, only to learn that it offers its own grave problems and we don't have any very good solutions for them so far. One of my bright young friends is, it seems to me, right on the track when he says no politician or other public figure in this nation is really addressing himself to this great puzzle.

Too many such figures are still telling us that the big thing to do is feel guilty about the lingering problems of the poor. Again, to say that they are wrong is not to demean the difficulties of the poor nor to suggest their "benign neglect." It is simply to argue that we need to come awake to the more profound things troubling this society.

The plainest truth is that we don't know what to do with affluence. At least in American society we have discovered that it produces an incredible sense of emptiness and boredom. It robs us of challenge, and we are finding that continuing challenge is essential to vibrant life.

These are not new themes. They have been expressed before. But it is entirely true that our public figures don't know how to approach them. If they speak of challenge, they talk of finding it in older problems of lesser force.

The boredom and emptiness show themselves, of course, in endless ways. They are visible on the surface, in meaningless motion for motion's sake (youngsters driving about with nowhere to go), with "we will enjoy" vacationers busy not enjoying themselves, with countless folk merely lounging about as if the object of living were just to get through the day.

The young loungers are a sad sight. They may not think so. As they drape themselves in postures of languor in public places, they may tell you soberly they are "turned off and tuned out."

At root, that is a confession of emptiness. Think what their days must be like, how bare must be their store of memories. "Let's see, what did we do Wednesday? Oh, yes, that was the afternoon we sat on the steps of the bank." Those who don't lounge but do in fact work may tell you their lives are boring, whether they sit at desks or labor on factory lines. Who can doubt it? Work in this society, from the assembly line to the professor's narrow gauge study, is overspecialized.

What we need is a fuller, richer view and a broader quest in living. We have indeed made the seeking of material things our goal. When the search succeeds, as it has for many millions, what follows then?

As in the necessary routine of simply existing, so with some tasks in an industrial society: They are inherently repetitive and boring. Great challenges submerge them. But these are vanishing with affluence.

"WOULD YOU BELIEVE, FOUR MORE YEARS?"

Plans For War

CAIRO — Secret studies here calculate that a crossing of the Suez Canal or a landing on the north coast of Israeli-occupied Sinai could cost 10,000 military and civilian Arab casualties in its initial phase.

Nevertheless despite the cost in terms of an Israeli retaliation, some Egyptian leaders regard the price as worth paying if the attack could damage Israel.

Thus, what is contemplated is not a dash across the canal and back — clearly within Egyptian capability — but a coordinated assault to seize a Sinai bridgehead and dispatch what would almost surely be one-way suicidal air attacks on Israel proper.

All objective evidence powerfully argues that the result of such desperate military action would be catastrophic for Egypt. Facing the most highly motivated and skilled military machine of its size in the world, the Egyptians would risk awful retribution with no likelihood of Soviet intervention and little prospect of a diplomatic bailout by the Americans. Arab leaders from Libya to Syria would shake their fists at Israel, but all are trapped in military impotence.

The result, then, could be destruction of the substantial military equipment accumulated here from the Russians since the 1967 war and a quantum jump in Israel's hegemony in the Middle East.

Yet, the planning goes forward even though the Egyptian army apparently is engaging in no army maneuvers above the brigade level and Moscow is reluctant to provide even such vital military equipment as spare parts.

The reason the planning goes forward is President Anwar Sadat's undeniable political bankruptcy, together with his inability to develop any coherent policy. That inability has been heavily underscored by U.S. failure to follow up Sadat's concession to Israel.

Egyptians now know what us: "Yadat is standing under the tree with his hat open waiting for the fruit to drop in. He does not understand that the fruit has not even ripened." Unmistakable signs are multiplying that not only is Sadat losing the confidence of his people but also that some other Arab states are becoming hesitant about dealing with Egypt.

As one leading Egyptian told us: "Yadat is standing under the tree with his hat open waiting for the fruit to drop in. He does not understand that the fruit has not even ripened." OEO Is Out

WASHINGTON — The end appears near for the so-called anti-poverty agency — the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO).

After eight years of stormy and controversial existence, the expenditure of more than $16 billion of taxpayers' money, and the piling up of one of the most malodorous records in federal history of scandals, corruption, waste, mismanagement and various other abuses, the grossly mislabeled operation is apparently headed for dismantlement.

President Nixon is seriously considering recommending that in his budget message to the new 93rd Congress that convenes in January.

Significantly indicative of this backstage plan is a remark made by Mrs. Philip Sanchez, wife of the OEO director, when she and their children left Washington recently. "We're moving back to Fresno (Calif.). My husband doesn't expect to be here much longer."

As being discussed in inner White House councils, the dismantlement of OEO would be accomplished as follows:

Two of its major programs would be retained and shifted elsewhere — the generally well-regarded Headstart, with a current budget of around $400 million, would be turned over to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which is now running it; Manpower, with more than $1 billion for training and related activities, moved to the Labor Department, which is already managing it.

While both these programs nominally are part of OEO, operationally they have been under departmental jurisdiction for several years — for the simple and very good reason OEO was incapable of administering them.

The rest of OEO, with some $750 million in budget funds, would be junked — almost certainly to the loud and vociferous outcries and protestations of do-gooders, reformers, militants and other activist elements, particularly in populous, inner city areas. These segments have rancorously made the most of these OEO activities, and undoubtedly will vehemently oppose their axing.

Principally they are Community Action and Legal Services — both intensely controversial and the targets of widespread and furious castigation and denunciation by local, state and other authorities.

Community Action has been assailed in Congress as "revolutionary" and "inciting revolt"; Legal Services in equally unsparing terms.

Hammer Toes

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to correct hammer toes without surgery? I am 15 years old and am wondering if special shoes will correct this at an early age. — C. S.

Hammer toe (and I assume you are referring to the angularity of the second and third toes into a clawlike configuration) can be brought about by such a simple thing as ill-fitting shoes in childhood. Most often, though it results from some inherent deformity.

Sometimes, splinting may stretch the overflexed tendons and correct things.

At your age, it might be worthwhile attempting something short of surgery at least for a few years. If better fitting shoes or splinting (for example) doesn't work, then surgery will probably be your only hope.

Allowed to continue, hammer toe can be more than a cosmetic nuisance, since it can result in callus formation and possible ulcers on the tips of the toes and the humped joints.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 19 and have an irregularity problem. I have been taking epsom salts every morning to make me regular. Would this hurt me in any way? — C. J.

Yes. That is a harsh cathartic which forces the colon to act by sheer irritation.

First of all, you will never become "regular" that way — but may wind up with colitis, or with a colon that finally won't behave normally but comes to depend on this harsh treatment.

If you eat ample bulk (fruits and vegetables) you will establish a regular — and normal — movement. Also be sure you get ample liquids.

Don't get in a panic if you go a day or two without a movement. The incorrect notion that everybody has to have a daily movement to be healthy has scared too many people into resorting to laxatives that they don't need.

If you want to understand more exactly — and I think you need to — how the colon behaves and how to keep it healthy, I suggest you carefully read my booklet, "The Way To Stop Constipation." Send 25c and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for the booklet, and give it a thorough reading.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a hysterectomy and repair work, and my tubes cut and tied. A friend had the same operation by another doctor. He tells her a Pap test is not necessary and mine says it is. — Mrs. R. W.

I don't want to get in the middle of that argument, but the details of the surgery can be significant. If the cervix was NOT removed, then a routine Pap test afterward is wise. If the cervix WAS removed, the Pap test is of less significance, but is of some use. Reason: The Pap test is highly effective in detecting early cancer of the cervix; it is less efficient in detecting cancer of more remote tissues, but at times will disclose a case.

Danger of cancer is much lower when the uterus and cervix have been removed, as those tissues are more likely to harbor malignancies.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: One of my breasts is larger than the other, almost a whole cup size. Could this be some form of cancer? What could have caused it? Should I see a doctor? — L. B.

Not nearly as unusual as you may think. Few people are perfectly symmetrical. Some, for example, even have feet of different sizes. Best solution in your case is a bit of padding in your bra for the smaller breast.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would a water glass of fresh-squeezed orange juice be harmful? I thought it was just a little more vitamin C. — Mrs. F. S.

I gather from your brief note that somebody has been trying to convince you that "you shouldn't drink orange juice." For what purpose, I can't imagine. The orange juice will, indeed, give you some added vitamin C, plus a certain amount of natural sugar and some useful odds and ends of minerals.

Unless you happen to be allergic to oranges — a few people are — I can't see what harm you might encounter. Oh, a few patients may have to avoid citrus fruits for some special conditions, but those are exceptions rather than the rule.

US wins battle in UN for support reduction

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The United States, having won its fight to reduce its share of the cost of operating the United Nations, challenged the Soviet Union today to take its case for a similar cutback to the U.N. General Assembly.

The Soviet Union, which pays 14 per cent of the U.N. budget, warned it might cut the amount it pays toward keeping the world organization in operation.

The General Assembly agreed Wednesday by a vote of 81-27, with 22 abstentions, to reduce the U.S. share of the world organization's assessed costs by more than six per cent—from 31.52 per cent to 25 per cent.

The new lower assessment comes into effect Jan. 1, 1974.

The reduction amounts only to $13 million under current U.N. budget figures, but the United States argued that as a matter of principle no country should pay a disproportionate share of the costs. It proposed a ceiling of 25 per cent for any one member.

At the same time, the Assembly voted 111-0, with 20 abstentions, to reduce the poorest members from 0.04 per cent to 0.02 per cent annually.

The American cutback was in line with U.S. Congressional action taken several weeks ago to limit the amount the United States pays. U.S. delegates said the 25 per cent ceiling applied only to budget assessments, but not to voluntary contributions made by Washington to various U.N. programs.

At the moment, the United States pays $56.3 million in assessed contributions and another $377 million in voluntary contributions.

Folk singer Joan Baez and Telford Taylor, chief prosecutor of Nazi war criminals at the Nuremberg Trials after World War II, left for Hanoi Wednesday carrying Christmas mail from for 500 American prisoners of war in North Vietnam from their families.

A minister in Illinois said some of the POWs may no longer be there.

Miss Baez and Taylor said the letters would be turned over to the Vietnam Committee for Solidarity with the American People in Hanoi for delivery to the prisoners.

But according to the Rev. Paul Lindstrom, chairman of the Remember the Pueblo Committee, some of the mail may have to be forwarded to China.

Lindstrom said Wednesday he learned in Hong Kong "from Chinese sources" that U.S. prisoners of war have been transferred by the Pathet Lao and the North Vietnamese into Communist China.

Speaking with newsmen in Honolulu before boarding a plane for Chicago, Lindstrom said he had learned "as many as 73 Air Force personnel have been transferred over the past 14 months" into several detention areas in China.

Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, Ill., said he did not know why the transfers took place, but "the Hong Kong sources suggested the possibility that the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao are not planning on releasing all of our prisoners and have moved some into safekeeping in Red China."

Miss Baez, long active in the antiwar movement, and Taylor, now a Columbia University law professor, said before departing from Kennedy Airport in New York that they hoped to meet with some of the prisoners and also, with ordinary North Vietnamese MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said Wednesday his government is serious about seeking agreement with the United States on handling airline hijackers, but is not interested in improving overall relations between the two countries.

In a speech broadcast by Radio Havana and monitored in Miami, Castro said the U.S. economic blockade of Cuba would have to be lifted unconditionally before his government even considers talking about better relations with Washington.

"We are discussing a solution to the problem of the airplanes, a problem that worries the entire international community, and we will seriously try to find a solution for this problem," Castro said.

News Of Servicemen

BUHL — Nancy Jo Reese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Reese, Buhl, has enlisted in the U. S. Army for a period of three years.

She selected the Army's LPN Corps and will attend training at Madigan General Hospital following basic training at Ft. McClellan, Alabama.

Yuletide plans for Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Plans for Christmas activities were made by the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce in a Tuesday meeting.

President Reid Newby reported on the American Falls Reservoir Dam status. All persons served through the Shoshone Post Office were urged to participate in a Christmas home-decorating contest, sponsored by the chamber.

Chairman Harrell Thorne said those in rural areas are asked to notify the Idaho Power Co. office in Shoshone by the afternoon of Dec. 22 if they wish judges to consider their exhibits.

Judging will be done on the night of Dec. 22. First prize will be an electric blender from Idaho Power Co. with second and third prizes of $15 and $10 cash each from the chamber of commerce.

Santa Claus will visit Shoshone Dec. 16 to visit children and distribute treats following a free movie at 2 p.m. in the Rex Theater.

Floyd Silva announced Santa will probably arrive by sleigh this year.

Teachers workshop approved

JEROME — Jerome School Board of Trustees given tentative approval to a teachers' workshop sponsored by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Supt. John Campbell said he had received the request from Stuart Murrell, regional conservation educator for Magic Valley with the fish and game department.

Campbell said that the workshop would be conducted April 24 by fish and game personnel.

"The reason for the workshop, which has been held in other school districts, is to give teachers a better understanding of the outdoors and ecology of the area so they can better teach in the classroom. It will be of the greatest interest to the social studies and science teachers," Campbell said.

He said the one-day workshop will be conducted along the Snake River behind the Jerome golf course.

"The board gave its tentative approval to the workshop providing a majority of teachers agree to attend. Campbell was instructed to find out how many would attend and to report at the next regular school board meeting."

If the workshop is approved by the trustees it would mean changing the school calendar for Easter vacation.

The present calendar is set to dismiss students at 1 p.m. April 12 and reconvene on April 24. If the calendar change is made, students will be dismissed at 1 p.m. April 20 and reconvene April 25.

Valley CD aides attend training

TWIN FALLS — About 35 Magic Valley civil defense directors and others involved in emergency programs are attending a week-long training program in Twin Falls.

Today's program will feature a list of special speakers. The training session concludes Friday. David Hansen, coordinator for civil defense training, University of Idaho, said the program is primarily for preparedness training for natural disasters. It is sponsored by the University of Idaho office of special programs. This is one of several similar programs being conducted around the state.

Earlier sessions covered specific training for directors in various phases of civil defense duties.

Speakers today included Gen. James Brooks and Col. H. V. Smith of the Idaho adjutant general's office; Jim Armitage, Moscow, Latah County Civil defense director and representative of the regional Office of Emergency Preparedness, Ray Wilman and Don Ferno, both Seattle, regional office of civil defense.

Cloyce Edwards, Twin Falls County civil defense director, and Howard Johnson, Shoshone, coordinator for the area, are in charge of arrangements. Hansen said the sessions end Friday with directors from other parts of the state attending.

The week's sessions have been held in the remodeled conference rooms of the Holiday Inn.

Valley counties set voting pace

BOISE — Twin Falls, Minidoka and Cassia counties were among the leaders in voting turnout Nov. 7.

Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa said Wednesday that more than 80 per cent of the registered voters in Idaho cast ballots at the general election.

He said there were 397,019 voters registered for the election, and 318,179 or 80.1 per cent cast ballots. The biggest percentage was in Clark County where 91 per cent of those eligible — 475 out of 522 — went to the polls.

Minidoka led the Magic Valley counties among the leaders in Cenarrusa's survey with 84 per cent as 6,055 voters of 7,208 registered cast ballots.

In Cassia County, 6,400 voted of 8,557 registered for 74.8 per cent.

In Twin Falls County, 18,252 voted for 23,563 registered for 77.5 per cent.

Hostelry remodeling planned

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — The new owners of the Hotel Lewis-Clark announced Wednesday the landmark 119 unit facility will undergo a major "face-lift" in the next several months at a cost in excess of $1 million.

George Forschler, president of Ponderosa Inns, Burley, Idaho, said the hotel will be the fifth hotel to join the Ponderosa chain in Idaho.

Forschler said all hotel units will be remodeled, as well as the convention hall, meeting rooms. A new, centrally located swimming pool will be installed, Forschler said.

The cost of "phase one" will be $900,000.

Forschler said phase two plan calls for an additional 60 units to be added across the street from the hotel, with the street level of the building housing a shopping mall.

The sale of the building was announced two weeks ago. Seller is Bud Nelson and Associates.

LDS group trades yule recipes

RICHFIELD — "Holly Day Recipes" were given each Richfield LDS Relief Society member at the annual Christmas party Tuesday at the church.

Each member brought a sample of a favorite Christmas treat and each recipe was included in a booklet, Mrs. Mark Bowers, president, said.

A ham dinner was held at noon, followed by a gift exchange with each member exchanging something she had made at home. Christmas motifs decorated the tables. The social was held after the regular class instruction period.

Mrs. Perry Jones gave the homemaking lesson on "Being a Good Neighbor" and Mrs. Swainston gave instruction on developing responsibility in children.

Mrs. David Whitsell gave a demonstration on making Christmas tree ornaments from bread and molasses glue.

Totem hit

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho State University Native American Association plans to file a complaint with the Idaho Human Rights Commission protesting the Pocatello High School Indian mascot.

Dennis Banks, a field representative of the American Indian Movement, said the complaint alleges "the use of the Indian mascot, costumes and dances is dehumanizing and causes ill feelings between the Indian and white communities."

Child tires

The Twin Falls boy, reported missing yesterday evening in the vicinity of his home on Third Avenue East, was safe and sound while police and his parents searched for him. Howard was found, after a few hours, fast asleep in the next-door neighbors' basement.

Trailer fire burns resident

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Elwood K. Wallace, 25, Caldwell, received first and second degree burns when the trailer he was living in was destroyed by fire Wednesday.

Wallace was living in a 14-foot homemade camp trailer which he was heating by burning wood in a metal barrel.

Deputy US attorney general named

Lifts order

SEOUL (UPI) — The South Korean government of President Park Chung Hee lifted a 58-day-old martial law order Wednesday in a step toward a full constitutional government based on a new political order with greater presidential powers.

At the same time, the government renewed its promise that the nation will return to constitutional rule by the end of this year.

Political activities will still be banned for the time being although a tight press censorship imposed under martial law was ended.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, continuing the reshuffle of his second term administration, today selected Joseph T. Sneed, dean of Duke University Law School, to be second in command at the Justice Department.

Sneed will be nominated to be deputy attorney general, the White House announced. He will succeed Ralph E. Erickson whose resignation was accepted last week.

Nixon also selected James Keogh, a former member of his speech writing team, to be head of the U.S. Information Agency (USIA), succeeding Frank Shakespeare.

In addition, Dr. Robert Q. Marston, director of the National Institutes of Health (NIH), advised his staff that he will be replaced "within the next few months." Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler had no comment on Marston's status.

The President also announced that William H. Brown III has been asked to remain as chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

Sneed, 52, of Durham, N.C., taught at the law schools of Cornell and Stanford Universities and the University of Texas before going to Duke Law School, which the President attended.

Ziegler said "President Nixon feels enforcement of the law is among his highest responsibilities" and that Sneed will be able to play an important role in the anticrime drive.

Keogh was born in Platte, Neb., and began his journalism career on the Omaha World Herald.

Brown has been EEOC chairman since May 1969. Ziegler said that the President felt Brown had provided effective leadership in the field of "and will continue to be an effective leader."

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have always been a "night person." I seem to function much better during the night, and I sleep much better during the daylight hours.

If I get up before noon, I am completely exhausted all day. And if I try to go to sleep before 2 a.m., I toss and turn, and don't fall asleep until daybreak.

What grates me is that nobody believes there are really "night people." My biggest problem is my husband. He just hates to have me sleep until noon and says it is just plain laziness. You can't imagine how much this has complicated my life, Abby.

Is there a way I can change myself into a day person?

NIGHT PERSON

Biological clock

DEAR NIGHT: Yes. Drag yourself out of bed in the morning and pitch into those chores you formerly tackled after noon. I promise you that nobody will have to rock you to sleep at midnight. At first, you may encounter some difficulty in resetting your biological clock, but it can be done. The key word is "motivation."

DEAR ABBY: We are a married couple in our mid-40s, with four teen-aged children, all living at home.

My husband's brother, Al, is 38 and divorced. Al has been living with a young divorced woman for the last two years. They make no secret of it. On two occasions they came to visit us and I put her in the guest room and Al in a room with one of the boys. Al didn't like it, but I made it plain that what he did away from my home was none of my business, but I was not letting him share a bedroom with his girl friend in my home before my teen-aged children.

My husband says the kids are wise and I am being stupid and hypocritical. Maybe I am, but I wouldn't let any of my own children sleep with a sweetheart under my roof, and nobody else is going to do it either. And if they don't like it, they can check into a motel.

I am not saying my own children won't one day decide on a living arrangement like their uncle and his girl friend have now, but when they are self-supporting and out of my house, that's up to them, but I have a right to set the standards in my own home. Am I right or not?

DEAR K.: Right . . . and fight on!

DEAR ABBY: You advised BETTY THE BOOKKEEPER who was being pinched and pawed by an old geezer in the office to tell the boss if Casanova got out of line again.

Well, I had the same problem where I worked and after putting up with an old geezer's advances for a year, I finally told my boss.

Somebody was promptly fired, all right. I was! Casanova said I was imagining things—that he never touched me.

It was my word against his, and I was told I had to have proof. Abby, where could I get "proof" of such actions? He never molested me in the presence of witnesses.

It was suggested that I was mentally "off" and they gave me my notice. And after 15 years with this company, I lost retirement and pension benefits, which meant a lot to

Capping ceremony slated for CSI nursing students

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho practical nursing students will receive their caps in a traditional candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The ceremony will be conducted in the mini auditorium of the CSI vocational education building. Dr. Ben E. Katz, Twin Falls pediatrician, will be featured speaker.

Mrs. Ruth Malone, R. N., director of nursing services at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, will cap each student. Neil Cross, assistant director of vocational education at CSI will serve as moderator.

The CSI practical nursing course is a one-year program combining 525 hours of theory with 1,055 hours of clinical experience in the hospital. Students study anatomy, physiology, diseases and disorders of the nine-body systems, nutrition, community health, microbiology, growth and development, communicable diseases and pharmacology.

The students are also taught technical nursing procedures enabling them to give competent care to the patient as well as assist the registered nurse and the physician to care for the critically ill patient.

The CSI practical nursing program is one of many in the state and leads to a license to practice nursing in the state of Idaho after passing the state board examination.

Others assisting with the capping program include Deacon Lester Johansen, First Baptist Church, invocation; Deacon Wilbur Amend, Tyler Street Baptist Church, benediction, and Kathryn Stephenson, musical selections.

Students will be presented for capping by Gigi Lianne Erdolsa, R. N., nursing instructor. The students to be capped include Karen Amend, Lona Call, Helen Hernandez, Margaret Moore, Sherie Nelson, Rosa Pirraglia, Karana Ralls, Velda L. Taylor, Linda Thompson and Alberta Wilson.

During their training, the students will spend two weeks at St. Benedict's Hospital, Jerome, for geriatric experience, tour the Nampa State Training School and tour local public facilities such as water and sewage treatment plants, meat packing plants and dairies.

A summer trip is planned to Ogden and Salt Lake City to acquaint the students with nursing care given in larger facilities.

what may be discarded, to continue by cashing spades and clubs and finally to play hearts and pray for divine guidance.

Reese recommends an entirely different procedure. He suggests that you win the club in your hand and lead the jack of spades!

West will follow suit and you will observe his reaction. Rise with dummy's ace, return to your hand with a diamond and lead the jack of hearts!

If West reacts in exactly the same manner and plays low, you go up with dummy's ace and finesse against East.

If the reaction has been different, you take the finesse against him and chalk up the grand slam.

Voters meet

Legislators speak at league meet

TWIN FALLS — Legislators speaking during the annual League of Women Voters legislative luncheon indicated they will try to carry out voter mandates.

The luncheon meeting held in the Holiday Inn Tuesday is an annual event to give league members and their guests an opportunity to exchange ideas with the law makers prior to the opening of the new legislative session.

Rep. William Lanting, R-Hotchkiss, said he believes the election results last month indicate the people of Idaho want a conservative legislative session with no tax increases and few if any increases in state services.

Joining him in this view was Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, who told the league the biggest job for his committee, House Appropriations, will be distributing funds fairly. Roberts said he believes the people of Idaho are calling for a "status quo" situation.

Rep. Earl Greenawalt, R-Jerome, called for more educational emphasis on career training to equip young men and women of the state for earning a living without spending several years in college classrooms.

Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, told league members the major questions he sees before the legislature involve school consolidation, the school formula revision, repeal of the phaseout of inventory tax and an attempt to turn OSHA over for state control.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, said many important issues face the Health, Education and Welfare Committee he heads with 83 per cent of the general fund budget going to such programs.

One question which must be resolved is the Aid to Dependent Children program, he said.

Rep. Steve Antone R-Rupert, also stressed career education financing and said he believes Idaho residents can look to some form of no-fault insurance following the coming legislative session.

Sen. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, said the financial picture in Idaho is brighter than it has been in several years.

High said he sees the legislature maintaining the present tax level with about 7 per cent of the budget going to educational services.

Re-elect, Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, said he is looking forward to his new duties as a legislator and is open to suggestions.

More than 350 million pounds of popcorn were consumed in the United States in 1971.

Judge grants delay

JEROME — Fifth District Judge James Cunningham Tuesday granted a two-week delay for the entry of a plea by Gay Dean Standee, Hazelton. Standee was bound over to Fifth District Court last month to stand trial for first degree murder in the shooting death of his ex-wife, Sharyn Woodall, with an additional charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder in the shooting of Mrs. Woodall's husband, Theron Woodall.

Judge Cunningham refused a request by Pros. Atty. Gene Frederickson to raise the present bail of $30,000. He continued bail at that amount.

Standee will enter his plea to the charges at 10 a.m. Dec. 26. His attorney, James May, Twin Falls, requested a free transcript of the four-day preliminary hearing and was informed by Judge Cunningham that he would make a ruling on the request after he had received a transcript.

SHOSHONE — It is doubtful present the request.

Lincoln County commissioners will accept the request of the county Tax Equality Association to return the $35,000 federal revenue sharing check received Monday.

Commission Chairman C. F. Chatfield said the county commissioners have not yet received the formal request from the Tax Equality Association to return the money but he understands they plan to Approximately 14 members of the tax group met Monday night and went on record as favoring turning down the funds. They voiced objections to revenue sharing on the basis it will increase the national debt. Chatfield said his personal opinion is that persons attending the tax equality meeting do not represent the majority of taxpayers in the county.

Mid-East peace plans delayed

LONDON (UPI) — Plans for a major U.S. Middle East peace initiative have been put back until well into the new year and probably until after the delayed summit between President Nixon and Soviet party chairman Leonid I. Brezhnev, diplomatic sources said today.

The reasons given for the anticipated delay were the uncertain political situation in Egypt, West European inability to agree on a joint line, U.S. preoccupation with Vietnam beyond the expected Christmas deadline for a settlement and the delay in Brezhnev's visit to Washington, the sources said.

Another factor is Israel's firm insistence on some form of direct negotiation with Cairo as the basis for any peace settlement.

The sources said a major important factor in the expected delay of any new major Middle East peace initiative also is the position of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who is believed to be fighting for his political survival against pressures from extremists, elements in the military and disappointed middle-of-the-road politicians.

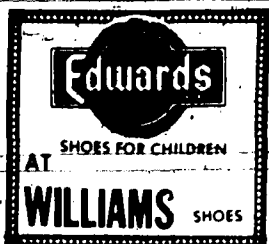

Some diplomats—both among the Western leaders and Communists—have voiced doubts, according to the sources, whether Sadat in the circumstances would be able to negotiate any binding, peace arrangement, especially since it would involve some concessions no matter how small.

The general assumption had been until now that a new major American Middle East peace offensive would be launched early in the new year. There had been speculation that presidential adviser, Dr. Henry

A. Kissinger may take the lead with some sweeping compromise proposals.

Heyburn supports more BPA plants

By DAVID HORSMAN
Times-News writer
HEYBURN — This city will participate in the building of two more hydro-thermal plants under an agreement with the Bonneville Power Administration signed Wednesday evening.

The city councilmen took the action after hearing BPA official, Guy Hughes explain the nuclear powered projects and reaffirm the need for new sources of electricity in the northwestern states.

Heyburn had previously pledged its financial support in the building of an initial plant — termed Washington Public Power Supply System No. 2.

Wednesday night's agreement concerned WPPSS plants No. 1 and 3. Hughes said the two new plants are scheduled to begin in 1980-81 and will be paid for by both public and private power firms.

City officials also heard building inspector Bill McClung. He proposed an increase in the fees for building permits issued by the city. The cities of Heyburn and Paul have the lowest permit rates in southern Idaho, according to McClung.

"Building a house in Heyburn or Paul is almost a losing proposition for the city," he said.

Councilman Bob Hamilton was asked to compile income and expenditure figures in the building department and report to the next meeting.

In other action the council agreed that the city would not join with Burley in the purchase of a computer for billing and accounting purposes. The multiple use concept for a computer, was proposed in the last Burley City Council meeting.

Received a petition from several Heyburn residents asking that Cable View Television services be extended east of the Burley-Rupert highway in Heyburn. The councilmen said they will consult with Cable View officials concerning their request.

Valley schools leader retires

VALLEY SCHOOL — Dr. Tom Utterback, superintendent of Valley schools, today officially announced he will retire at the end of this school year.

Dr. Utterback has been superintendent at Valley school for the past 11 years. Prior to that, he was superintendent for eight years at Murtaugh.

Dr. Utterback has been in the school administration field for the past 36 years having served in Missouri, Nebraska, California and Alaska where he was territorial superintendent of schools.

He taught at Flagstaff State Teacher's College, Flagstaff, Ariz., and at Oceanside Junior College, Oceanside, Calif.

During his 11 years in the Valley School District he was instrumental in developing lifetime sports with educational P. E. Valley schools were the first in the state to have such a program. He also introduced modern math and English in order to co-ordinate with college programming.

Under his administration a complete language lab, completely equipped electronics class, a centralized grade school library, a drug education program using students as teachers and the migrant student record transfer system terminal site, part of a nationwide program, were begun.

Suit warms up SV plant feud

By TERRY CAMPBELL
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Contention over the Sun Valley Redi-Mix plant has warmed up with a suit of intervention by the city of Hailey.

The suit and accompanying motion for intervention, filed in Fifth District Court by city attorney Stephen W. Boller, seeks the city's entrance as a plaintiff into an earlier suit against the plant by neighboring land owners, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Somsen.

Controversy has surrounded the plant for more than a year, mainly centering on the encroachment of the plant on Maple Street.

According to the city's complaint, as a non-conforming building under the Hailey planning and zoning ordinance adopted in 1969, the plant located in southeast Hailey — cannot be enlarged or extended so as to increase the degree of non-conformity.

However, the complaint states "the defendants have greatly increased their non-conforming use by expanding operations as a concrete batch plant and a construction company" in violation of the provisions of the ordinance.

Sought by the complaint is a declaration by the court that the plant is a non-conforming use, the defendants' use of the plant has expanded in violation of the ordinance and that the court "enjoin and restrain the defendant from any operation of said concrete batch plant beyond that as existed on June 26, 1969," the effective date of the ordinance.

In a second count of action, the complaint seeks that the "defendant be restrained from encroaching upon Maple Street" and that the court require "the removal of that portion of said concrete batch plant which encroaches upon Maple Street."

The complaint states that the defendant has been requested and warned to remove the encroachment and on July 6, 1972, was given 120 days to remove it.

"The defendants have failed, refused and neglected to remove said encroachment from the public right-of-way, of the city of Hailey within the time allowed," the complaint states.

According to a statement by plant office manager, Marty Martindale, if either suit is successful, "they would close us out of business."

Martindale said each month for the past eight months, Sun Valley Redi-Mix and S and V Construction have contributed $50,000 in payroll — a figure which he said was matched in local purchases.

With the installation of a new air filter, Martindale said the firm had received a "clean bill of health" from the State Pollution Control Board in sound, air and dust pollution.

The section of Maple Street in question, Martindale said, is 100 by 125 feet and "starts no where and ends no where."

Company officials earlier said that the silo portion of the facility is about 23 feet over the property line into the street.

However, they said that Maple Street is closed between the plant's location on Fourth Street and U. S. Highway 93 and that the 125-foot-long section had never been graded, opened or maintained as a street.

If the plant was removed from the street, Martindale said, because of the firm's non-conforming status, the facility could not be re-erected.

The Somsen suit, filed in September, stated that since the plant was established in 1968 and began operation the mixing plant "has constituted and continues to constitute a nuisance."

In October, 1968 Somsen and other Hailey residents filed a similar suit against Jimmy J. Walker, president of the company, which was decided in favor of the defendant in 1970.

However, the new action stated that since that time the operation has increased in "sizeable proportions" with the acquisition of S and V Construction Co., previously located in Bellevue.

In a second cause of action, the Somsen suit stated that the defendants' use of their property in such a manner "does constitute and continues to constitute a moral nuisance to the entire community and neighborhood."

Sought in the action is an injunction against the defendants to prevent them from continuing to maintain the ready-mix plant in that area and that they be "ordered to remove their structure from the premises and cease and desist from the continued operation."

SV shuttle bus service slated

KETCHUM — Shuttle bus service between Ketchum and Sun Valley will begin Saturday. According to a news release from the Ketchum - Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce — the sponsoring organization — the Monday through Saturday schedule will be as follows:

— The first bus leaves the Warm Springs lift at 7:30 a.m. and will arrive in Sun Valley at 7:50 a.m., with stops in town.

— At 8 a.m. regular scheduled service will begin, starting at Sun Valley and following the same route as last year at approximately 25 minute intervals. Starting at 4 p.m., one bus will make a complete loop hourly with the last bus leaving at 10 p.m.

— At 4:30 p.m. the second bus will operate only between downtown Ketchum and the Sun Valley Lodge until 11 p.m.

On Sundays, one bus will be run hourly from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. because of the need for servicing the buses.

Bus stop signs will be installed as soon as they are completed. Printed schedules are expected to be ready by Dec. 22.

Councilman Bob Hamilton was asked to compile income and expenditure figures in the building department and report to the next meeting.

In other action the council agreed that the city would not join with Burley in the purchase of a computer for billing and accounting purposes. The multiple use concept for a computer, was proposed in the last Burley City Council meeting.

VALLEY SCHOOL — Dr. Tom Utterback, superintendent of Valley schools, today officially announced he will retire at the end of this school year.

Dr. Utterback has been superintendent at Valley school for the past 11 years. Prior to that, he was superintendent for eight years at Murtaugh.

Dr. Utterback has been in the school administration field for the past 36 years having served in Missouri, Nebraska, California and Alaska where he was territorial superintendent of schools.

He taught at Flagstaff State Teacher's College, Flagstaff, Ariz., and at Oceanside Junior College, Oceanside, Calif.

During his 11 years in the Valley School District he was instrumental in developing lifetime sports with educational P. E. Valley schools were the first in the state to have such a program. He also introduced modern math and English in order to co-ordinate with college programming.

Under his administration a complete language lab, completely equipped electronics class, a centralized grade school library, a drug education program using students as teachers and the migrant student record transfer system terminal site, part of a nationwide program, were begun.

Ketchum-SV aides re-elect leader

KETCHUM — Billie Thompson has been re-elected president of the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce for the coming year.

The selection was made Tuesday evening by the group's new board of directors during the annual election and installation meeting. Re-elected as vice president was Ed Pilkerton.

The action followed unanimous election by the general membership of a slate of board of directors proposed by the nominating committee.

The new directors include Don Bedford, Bill Brohan, Lorraine Curtis, Maggie Cutter, Pilkerton and Ralph Thomas.

Ms. Thompson said she sought re-election because of the number of on-going chamber projects initiated this year. She cited the merger of the chamber and the Visitors' Bureau as the largest change in the past year and commended Brohan and Pilkerton for their work on the merger.

Priorities for the year will be to get the shuttle bus between Ketchum and Sun Valley rolling and to support improvements in the Ketchum Fire Department to the fullest, she said.

Ms. Thompson also commended the chamber members for the time and effort they have expended to make the chamber "outstanding and the contribution they have given to organization, accomplishments — accomplishments she said would not have been possible without the cooperation of the local news media.

During the meeting, Lloyd Curtis, chamber secretary-manager, outlined the group's activities in the past year.

Donations were given to the Ski Education Foundation, Nite-line and the Salmon River Emergency Clinic, Curtis said, with support given to the spring clean-up, Basque Dinner and the Wood River Recreation Association area.

Functions, sponsored or co-sponsored by the group, included the Moritz retirement party, a Walt Wagner concert, a drug prevention play, the ISU summer theater and "Fund-a-Bus" — which enabled the group to fund two shuttle buses for the winter season.

Issues brought before the community were the construction of a new Warm Springs Bridge, plans for U.S. Highway 93, the regional airport authority and fire department improvements.

Curtis said projects started and completed this year were the area tourist facility map and the first directory for the Ketchum - Sun Valley area.

Toy drive

KETCHUM — A drive to collect toys for needy children this Christmas has been initiated by two Ketchum youths.

Peter Hadley and David Lister, students at Wood River High School, have donated their time to head a committee for the drive.

Toy collection boxes have been placed at the Hemingway Elementary School, Ketchum, and Wood River Junior High School, Hailey. The youths said although they are willing and able to make minor repairs, all donated toys should be in good condition.

Richfield aides hear report

RICHFIELD — Richfield City Council met in regular session Tuesday night to hear a report on the new sewer system.

Mayor C. W. Ward read a telegram from the Environmental Protection Agency stating there will be enough grant money available to proceed with the system.

The money previously funded was short of the Hartwell Construction Co. low bid of $281,489.50. A contract was given the company at the November meeting pending approval of the EPA.

Christmas decorations and lighting for Main Street were discussed. Councilman Linley T. Sanders was assigned to investigate necessary wiring and switches so that lights can be placed early for next year's decorating.

TF plant votes against union

TWIN FALLS — Employees of the Idaho Frozen Foods in Twin Falls voted nearly two to one Wednesday afternoon against union representation.

The election showed 115 employees favoring and 212 against representation by the Teamsters Union, Local 483. H. W. Reynolds, president of the local, said this is the third election held at Idaho Frozen Foods, and the third to fail.

Vern Routh, president of the processing company, said nearly all of the eligible employees in the plant cast ballots in the Wednesday election.

He said he would assume from the election results the firm is meeting a majority of employee desires in the way of working conditions, wages and job benefits.

Routh said this is the first election at his plant since a little over four years ago.

Fire closes plant

WENDELL — Activities at the Rim View Trout Farm, south of Wendell, were shut down today as a result of a Wednesday morning fire.

Gary Olson, manager of the plant, said fire was discovered about 5:45 a.m. and apparently started in a fuse box. He said it damaged one wall and a bathroom. The plant plans to resume operations within a few days as soon as power can be restored and fire damage cleaned up, he said.

The Wendell Fire Department answered the alarm.

Hearing tonight

WENDELL — A public hearing on sewer lagoon enlargements for the new Wendell sewage system will be tonight at 7 p.m. at the Wendell City Hall.

An ordinance lowering the city liquor license fee will be voted upon by the City Council and an agreement between the Idaho Highway Department and the city of Wendell concerning maintenance of city roads will be studied.

BPA power rate increase aired

BURLEY — Power users in parts of Minidoka and Cassia county can probably expect rate increases in the future if the Bonneville Power Administration increases its rates.

Power consumers in that area get their power from three different companies that buy power from the BPA. The three companies are Unity Light and Power, Burley, Raft River Electric Co., Malta, and Rural Electric Co., Rupert.

Raft River and Rural Electric serve the most customers, with 1,800 users each. Rural Electric serves the Minidoka and eastern Cassia County area.

Unity serves about 1,000 users in Burley and surrounding area. BPA administrator Don Hodel, Portland, Wednesday announced the agency will request permission from the Federal Power Commission to increase its rates by 25 per cent effective two years from now. Another increase is possible in 1979.

Generally the users of BPA power in the Minidoka and Cassia counties area felt that the rate increase was to be expected and were not all surprised by the announcement.

John L. Jones, manager of Unity Light and Power in Burley, said if the rates are increased "we would have to accept it."

He said that the costs of producing power are bound to increase since no more dams can be built. He said there will be a rate increase to Unity customers if BPA rates are raised.

Ed Schlender, manager of Raft River Electric Co-op, said "The way things are going, we knew there would be an increase, but we still hope to hold it down."

Schlender said committees of the Public Power Council, an organization comprised of municipal and cooperative power systems, will hold studies to determine the actual rate increase needed by BPA. He said the council will have a word as to whether the BPA rate increase will be approved as requested.

Users of power from Raft River Electric probably would also get a rate increase if BPA raises its prices, Schlender indicated.

John Brog, manager of Rural Electric Co., Rupert, said "We have been expecting this. Everything to hold down costs has been done."

Brog did say the BPA rate increase would not necessarily force an increase to the users of his company.

He said "We are going to buck the trend. They are going to prove to us that they need the increase."

Brog qualified the challenge by saying he is not necessarily antagonistic toward the BPA, but feels something must be done concerning the energy shortage and the resultant rate increase.

Education meet set in Blaine

HAILEY — Community education will be discussed tonight at a public meeting of the Blaine County School Study Committee.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the multipurpose room at Wood River Junior High School.

Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, will attend to discuss the implications of various federal funding agencies, including the aims of the current Post Secondary Education Act before Congress.

Representatives of the Castle Rock, Wash. school system will lead a discussion concerning their nationally recognized program of individualized instruction.

Castle Rock schools have also received recognition for a community education program in which students are provided diverse opportunities for learning experiences within the community.

Dr. Lindley J. Stiles, Northwestern University, study committee chairman, and Walter Hoessel, study coordinator, will comment on community education program.

American Motors increases prices

DETROIT (UPI) — American Motors Wednesday announced it was increasing prices on its 1973 models an average $38, ending the first round of the 1973-model price battle with Washington.

The four major automakers were denied permission to increase prices on 1973 models when they went on sale in mid-September. Since then, the Price Commission has granted their requests and 1973 model cars and trucks are now selling at an average $54 to $76 more than comparably equipped 1972 models.

The increases granted so far cover the additional costs the companies incurred on stronger bumper systems and in meeting emission control and safety equipment requirements. They make no profit on those hikes but simply recover their costs.

The next step—General Motors and Chrysler already have taken it—is to request additional increases of about $100 to cover the costs of higher labor and material prices. American Motors has already been granted $68 to cover those costs, but has not put the increase into its suggested retail prices, and Ford indicates it will be back with its request in January.

The $38 average increase announced by AMC Wednesday is the balance of the approval previously granted by the Price Commission to bring AMC's cars and jeep vehicles to $76 more than 1972 models.

The full increase was not used when it was granted.

EPA seeks study info

DENVER (UPI) — The regional office of the Environmental Protection Agency has asked for more information on what the Interior Department called "one of the most comprehensive" environmental impact studies on whether oil shale development should occur in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

John Green, Region 8 EPA administrator, said Tuesday after reviewing the study that the Interior Department should pay more attention to the question of water availability in the three-state area.

Green also wants more information on air quality, spent shale disposal, toxic chemicals from processing and the potential salinity increase in the Colorado River.

The Interior Department made the study on the prototype program which calls for six federal leases on which oil shale would be developed, mined and processed.

Green said the department should project in detail how much water the industry is going to need for such development and where it will come from. Thousands of water rights in the Colorado River Basin complicate the water availability projections, he said.

Wiseman sworn in to office

TWIN FALLS — William Wiseman was officially sworn in Tuesday to a position on the Twin Falls County Commission.

The oath of office, administered by commission chairman William Chaney in the commission office in the courthouse, ends a vacancy on the board that was created with the death last month of Heber Loughmiller.

Wiseman's oath-taking came after he was recommended for the job by the Twin Falls Democratic Central Committee and formally appointed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Commissioner Merl Leonard said Monday Wiseman was originally scheduled to be sworn in at the beginning of the week, but the ceremony was delayed while the county awaited official word from the governor's office of the appointment.

That word arrived by mail and by telegram Monday afternoon.

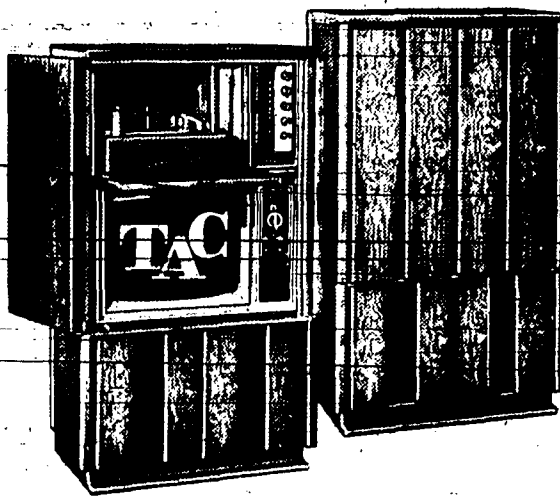

Wiseman will fill out the 25 months remaining in Loughmiller's term, to expire in January, 1975.

WENDELL Ph. 536-2407

Andrus pledges water defense

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the Potato Growers of Idaho Wednesday he will defend their water rights and promised that Idaho will not be the watershed for the arid Southwest.

"There will be no diversion of Idaho's water," Andrus said at a luncheon session. "If we have a surplus we'll use that surplus here — for Idaho's farmers and for Idaho's people."

"I have little patience for those who have devised wild schemes to convey our water to the south to irrigate acres in other states," he said. Andrus said that if new lands must be irrigated to feed the nation then "let's irrigate new Idaho lands."

"But," he added, "for the present, until we are sure that new fields of potatoes will not glut the market and force prices lower, let's reserve our options." Andrus also told the growers that Idaho faces a potential water crisis because of the deterioration of the American Falls Dam.

He said the reclamation bureau has reduced storage capacity of the reservoir by an estimated one third because the dam is cracked, crumbling and weakened by age.

"This means that water could be short during a normal year, but further, during a poor water year, some of our farmers would face certain financial ruin," he said.

Andrus said he has called for replacement of the dam as soon as humanly possible and added he will lead the Congressional delegation in an on-site tour of the dam next Tuesday so they, too, will be aware of the problem first hand.

Meat, bone meal good for calves

PROVO (UPI) — Brigham Young University scientists say they have learned something about feeding cattle that may surprise ranchers.

Researchers Robert W. Gardner, Leon F. Orme and Robert

D. Kellogg say they found that meat and bone meal is a good protein supplement in calf food.

Meat and bone meal has been used for years in hog rations "and many cattlemen have assumed that since hogs like it calves probably wouldn't eat it," said Gardner.

He said not only does the meal produce faster weight gains than commonly used cottonseed oil meal but that calves seem to like it.

Calves in a BYU study, Gardner said, ate well and averaged 13 per cent higher in daily weight gains than animals on cottonseed oil ration.

"These are important findings, especially since meat and bone meal is often cheaper than cottonseed oil meal," Gardner said.

Butz slates wool speech

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl F. Butz is scheduled to be the featured speaker at the 108th annual convention of the National Wool Growers Association Jan. 22-25 in Washington, D.C.

Vern Vivion, association president, said here that this will be the first annual convention of wool growers in the nation's capitol since 1897.

Butz is scheduled to speak at the "Festival of Lamb Banquet," Jan. 24. Vivion said lamb dishes from India, Ireland, Greece and Lebanon will be featured at the banquet.

Vivion said other speakers at the yearly convention will include: Rep. W.R. Poage, R-Tex., chairman of the House Agriculture Committee; David H. Stroud, president of the National Live Stock & Meat Board; Mrs. Frances Aleman, association auxiliary president; and Vivion.

US fall potato crop declines, USDA says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Tuesday production of fall crop potatoes in the United States will lag behind last year's by 8 per cent.

The yield is up on the average, but acreage is down substantially, the department said.

Crop experts forecast fall crop production at 234,100,000 hundredweight. That is just below the forecast of a month ago, but would be 8 per cent below both the 1971 and 1970 fall production, the department said.

The 1972 crop was harvested from 970,200 acres, 10 per cent below 1971 and 11 per cent below 1970's acreage.

Yield per acre from Eastern and Central States was below a year ago, but Western States produced a high yielding crop and pushed the average yield to 241 hundredweight an acre, compared with 236 in 1971 and 233 in 1970.

For the eight Eastern states, estimated production of 39,652,000 hundredweight in 1972 is down 20 per cent from the 1971 crop. Yield and acreage were down, and all eight states showed a lower estimate than a year ago.

The agriculture department said storage stocks of Irish potatoes for all uses, held by growers, local dealers and processors in the fall production areas totaled 156.9 million hundredweight as of Dec. 1. That was 11 per cent below potatoes on hand a year earlier for all uses.

Stocks in the eight eastern states were 33.3 million hundredweight, 24 per cent less than the potatoes on hand a year earlier.

US sugar quotas set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Tuesday it has reallocated 79,167 tons in 1972 U.S. sugar supply quotas to foreign countries and 50,000 tons to U.S. sugar beet growers.

The reallocations were ordered after officials found that several domestic producing areas and Panama would be unable to fill their previously assigned quotas.

Official "deficits" were declared of 103,600 tons in the quota for Hawaii, 24,000 tons in Puerto Rico and 1,667 tons for Panama.

This 129,167 ton total for reassignment abroad was reduced to 79,167 tons because officials ruled that the domestic beet sugar area would be able to supply 50,000 tons more than previously scheduled. Technically, Tuesday's action reduced a previously announced beet area deficit by 50,000 tons, thus boosting the area's quota by this amount.

In foreign reallocations,

30,000 tons were added to the

1972 quota for the Philippines, with the following amount in tons, added for: Western Hemisphere countries:

Dominican Republic, 11,181; Mexico 9,888; Brazil 9,643; Peru 6,901; West Indies, 1,500; Ecuador 1,424; Argentina 1,336; Costa Rica 1,267; Colombia, 1,188; Nicaragua 1,185; Venezuela, 1,074; Guatemala, 1,084; El Salvador 789; British Honduras 594; and Paraguay 114.

Stalin's death ended atmosphere of oppression

Editor's Note: When Josef Stalin died, the Soviet Union was in a time of oppression, fear and terror. Yet he was nearly deified by the nation. In this sixth installment of his personal account of four decades as a reporter in Moscow, Henry Shapiro writes about Stalin's death, and what then began to happen.

BY HENRY SHAPIRO
MOSCOW (UPI)—There was a universal atmosphere of fear and oppression in the nation the night in March, 1953, when I learned that Josef Stalin was dying.

About midnight March 3, I was called to the telephone at the Central Telegraph Office and asked to meet a friend around the corner. Avoiding the attention of other correspondents also in the office, I sneaked out of the building to meet the friend who brought the earthshaking news—Stalin had suffered a stroke which at his age, 74, could be fatal. He had survived two other strokes.

I rushed back to the Telegraph office, ordered urgent calls to London and several other points which I was prepared to hold all night, if necessary, and prepared six flash messages to New York, London, Tokyo and elsewhere.

I gently approached the girl receptionist before my colleagues could notice and made a little speech. "I am sorry to give you this but it comes from a good source and it cannot be helped," I said.

The girl's reaction was biological and instantaneous. She tore my messages into bits and flung them in my face. Such was the mystique of Stalin's personality and his hold on people's psyches that the girl, a member of the Komsomol (Young Communist League), like most of her contemporaries seemed to be lieve Stalin to be immortal. I could not send the story until several hours later when it was officially announced. The next few weeks were sleepless. Late in the evening of March 5 I was advised of Stalin's death hours ahead of the official announcement. Again the hopeless task of outwitting the censors.

I had kept an open line to London and whenever I uttered the word Stalin I was cut off. Luckily, one of our ace writers and editors, Bob Musel, was holding the London side of the line. After abortive attempts to communicate the news for which the entire world was waiting I tried a strategy.

The next time Musel picked up the telephone I did not tell, I asked: "You know what happened, Bob?" "Stalin died?" he responded. I just had the split second to say "yes" when the line was cut. But Musel who, like me, had been on the job for days, did the rest. We were hours ahead of the official confirmation.

The immediate Soviet reaction to Stalin's death was shock, grief and worry. It was not to last too long.

"What will happen to us now that Comrade Stalin is dead, will America attack us?" I heard Russians ask. Stalin had been the "friend and protector" for about three decades. He had been built up in popular imagination as the source of all good. The sun rose and set with Stalin and many could not think of life without him.

The popular anxiety was also expressed in the appeal to the nation by the triumvirate that took immediate power—Premier Georgi M. Malenkov, Vice Premier Molotov and Lavrenti Beria—"to avoid panic and disorder." To this day no one has satisfactorily explained what they meant by that phrase.

How fragile the Stalin legend was became obvious soon after the funeral. On March 23 there was an article in Izvestia, the government newspaper, praising Karl Marx for his "modesty" and for his repudiation of all efforts to idolize him.

When Vladimir I. Lenin died in 1924 there was relatively little doubt about his successor. During his long, incapacitating illness the Soviet founder had singled out the men he considered the ablest Communists—War Commissar Leon Trotsky and Party Secretary-General Josef V. Stalin. He also described the weaknesses of each, criticizing them severely and recommended neither of them succeed him. Almost on his deathbed he suggested the removal of Stalin.

But by then Stalin had so entrenched himself with the party apparatus, which Trotsky had antagonized, that the succession was almost automatic. Stalin, through a system of alliances with other pretenders to leadership, using one group against another, then discrediting his former allies, amassed dictatorial power by 1934.

The situation was quite different after Stalin's death. There was no clearly designated successor. There had been no Communist Congress, constitutionally the party's supreme ruling body, for 13 years, until October, 1952, about five months before Stalin died. Stalin did not bother to deliver the main report to the Congress as he had always done before and entrusted the job to his top aide, Georgi M. Malenkov. To many observers this was sufficient to consider Malenkov the heir apparent.

'What will happen to us now that Comrade Stalin is dead? Will America attack us?'

No one ever mentioned the name of the obscure Nikita S. Khrushchev who, although a Russian, had spent most of his life in the Ukraine and, as a result of Stalin's purges, had risen rapidly in the party ranks.

Malenkov took over both of Stalin's jobs—the premiership and party secretaryship—making him nominally at least the new Vozhd (supreme leader).

Actually, the country was ruled by an informal triumvirate consisting of Malenkov, Molotov and Security Chief Lavrenti Beria. The trio delivered funeral orations for Stalin and jointly issued policy statements and decrees.

It was immediately obvious to Moscow observers that the troika did not trust one another and its sway would be temporary.

It was no surprise then that on March 14, nine days after Stalin's death, Malenkov "resigned" from the party secretaryship. This was the first attack against the resumption of the one-man rule, a policy which prevails to this day. His place was taken by seemingly "safe" Nikita Khrushchev, to whom the trio turned over the party reins in the apparent belief he either would be a harmless rubber stamp or they could control him.

They thereby signed their political death warrants. Khrushchev was to outwit and overthrow them all.

One day we heard a report the Central Committee had met night-long on Beria's case. Rumors grew. That Beria was in trouble seemed to be clinched one Saturday night when the entire ruling party Presidium (Politburo), as if demonstratively, showed up at the Bolshoi Theatre. All members but Beria.

The joint attendance at the Bolshoi without Beria showed not only that something was seriously wrong with the most dreaded man in the country but also connoted a declaration of unity under the remaining triumvirs, Molotov and Malenkov. The censors, of course, saw to it that my story did not get out.

The arrest of Beria on charges of plotting to seize power, espionage, criminal abuse of police power and sabotage of the economy was confirmed officially a few days later.

How the most powerful man in the country could be so easily arrested—then executed—without provoking a blood bath was a question that troubled us here at the time. I was not to learn the true story until several years later, most of it from the mouth of Khrushchev himself and confirmed by other sources.

Fearing the emergence of another one-man dictatorship, all other members of the Politburo agreed to arrest Beria. To do it they requested the help of the Army and some anti-Beria elements of the security services.

Nikolai Bulganin was defense minister and Marshal Georgi Zhukov his first deputy. Also in on the deal was Marshal Kyrill Moskalenko, commander of the Moscow military garrison who had once been arrested by Beria. Moskalenko agreed to provide a group of trusted officers who were willing to risk a possible shootout with Beria's bodyguards.

USU tips Eagles on free throws

Ray Thomas and Rock hit crucial free throws in the last minute Wednesday night to lift the Utah State jayvees past College of Southern Idaho 83-81 in one of the best games ever played in the CSI gymnasium.

The defeat marked the end of a couple of streaks. It was the first time CSI had lost in its new gymnasium and the first CSI loss at home since then Boise Junior College managed the trick by one point on Feb. 20, 1968. The Eagles had won 58 straight going into the game, within five of the National Junior College Athletic Association national home court record. That mark of 63 currently is being threatened by Casper, Wyo. In its six year history, CSI has lost only three times at home, twice to Boise Junior College and now Utah State.

Utah State's main thrust was provided by the same trio that defeated CSI at Logan last year. Mark Tenhoeve, a 6-foot sophomore, held things together underneath while classmates Ray Thompson and Darrell Owens provided 47 points between them. The Utags shot extremely well, particularly Thompson, who wound up with 27, and Owens, who netted 20. Steve Swanson and Vince Volmut carried CSI through most of the game and particularly in the first half.

Only once did more than six points separate the two teams, that coming early in the second half when Utah State hit the first six points for a 47-34 advantage.

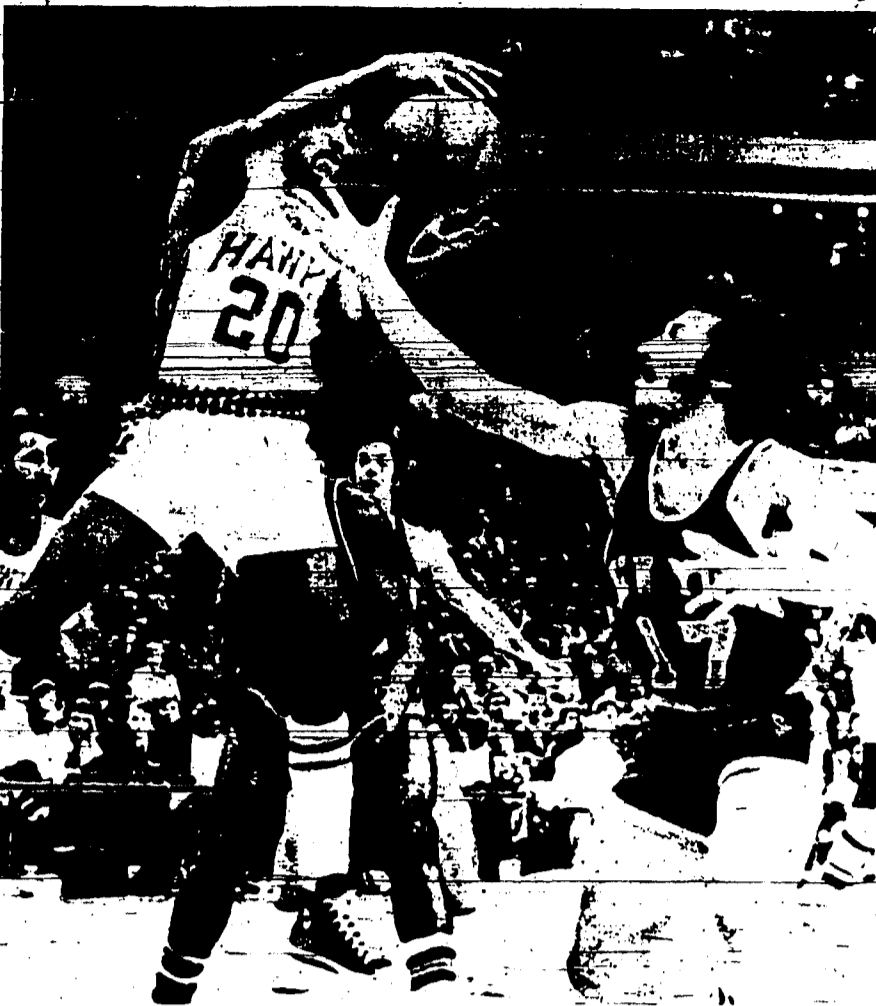

The Eagles, with Rick Sobers starting to warm up, then started back but it wasn't until 10:37 remained in the game that Ron Fryson hit two buckets to give the Eagles the lead. After two ties to 65-all, Sobers hit twice and Willie Williams got a tip to give CSI a 71-65 lead.

But with 4:17 left, Thompson collected a three-point play and Rock hit a fast break crippler. CSI regained the lead momentarily at 79-78 but Thompson shoved Utah State ahead and then came the four clinching free throws. Sobers hit the last CSI bucket with six seconds left to establish the final count.

The first half was a donnybrook with Swanson and Volmut hitting 12 apiece to keep the Eagles in it. The score was tied 11 times and the lead changed hands six times. CSI's biggest lead was six point, that coming late in the period. But in the last 1:51 Utah State exploded from a 36-30 deficit into a 41-38 halftime lead.

Utah State's hot shooting carried over to the foul line where the Aggies hit nine of 10 while CSI managed only three of eight.

Ball thief

IT WAS a case of outright thievery as New York's Henry Bibby (17) takes a rebound right out of the outstretched hands of Atlanta's Steve Bracey (20) in the first quarter of action in Atlanta. (UPI)

Cosic leads BYU over Oklahoma St.

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Kresimir Cosic pumped in 31 points as Brigham Young University waltzed to a 96-69 non-conference basketball victory over Oklahoma State Wednesday night.

Cosic netted 24 points in the first half and appeared to be headed for a new BYU scoring record. But he retired early when coach Glen Potter emptied his bench with 6:56 remaining in the game.

The closest the Cowboys got was a 4-4 tie three minutes into the game. The Cougars steadily pulled away, leading 50-36 at the half, as their pressing zone defense completely destroyed the visitors offense.

Warriors top Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — Jeff Mullins hit 10 of his 26 points in the fourth period Wednesday night to take the steam out of a Detroit rally as Golden State defeated the Pistons, 110-107.

The loss snapped Detroit's six game home winning streak and was its first defeat in four games.

The score changed hands 11 times in the third period before the Warriors went ahead for good, 85-82. Mullins hit two straight buckets and the Warriors outscored the Pistons 10-0 to go into a 95-82 lead.

The Pistons rallied on Dave Bing's 12 fourth-quarter points to trail 108-107 before Cazzie Russell's basket with four seconds to play garnered the win.

Russell hit 26 and center Nate Thurmond netted 25 for the Warriors. Curtis Rowe contributed 26 while Bing had 23 and Bob Lanier 22 for the Pistons.

Lakers crush Philly

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain put on an awesome display of shot blocking as the Los Angeles Lakers rambled to a decisive 128-90 victory Wednesday night over the hapless Philadelphia 76ers in a National Basketball Association game.

Chamberlain blocked 15 shots, for what is believed to be an NBA record, before Coach Bill Sharman mercifully pulled his star center out of the game. Chamberlain also pulled down a game-high 15 rebounds in a contest that was never close.

The Lakers bolted to an early 8-2 advantage and were ahead by 25 at 64-39 at halftime. They stayed safely ahead throughout the second half with the bulge at one stage reaching 40 points.

Padres will seek stay in San Diego

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The City of San Diego and the San Diego Padres admitted Wednesday that they are seeking agreements designed to keep the National League team from moving to another city.

"They want to stay and we want to see them stay," Mayor Pete Wilson said after meeting Padre President F.J. (Buzze) Bavasi.

Their chief problem is they're disappointed in community support, which hasn't been what it should be," Wilson said.

Bavasi mentioned an advertising conflict involving Padre commitments and new advertising panels at San Diego stadium, but Wilson minimized their importance in the overall picture.

Bavasi was quoted in Washington as saying a decision on moving would be made within 10 days, but he said here:

"This is all premature. We do have a problem with the city over use of advertising panels.

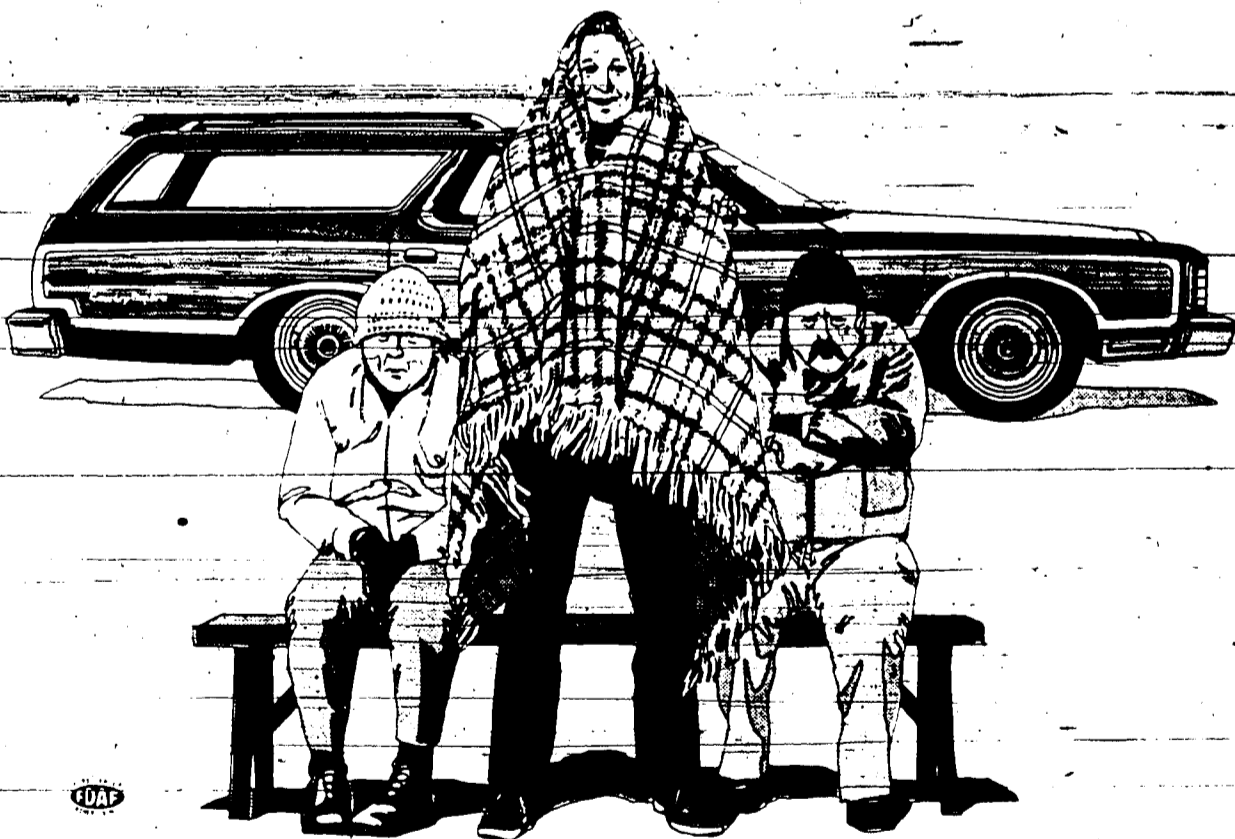

Of course if we don't resolve the problem we would have to think about it moving."

After meeting Wilson he said, "We are trying to resolve a difficult problem. I can't say there was any progress toward settling our differences but the mayor has been more than cooperative."

Wilson said he would meet again soon with Bavasi, and he brushed aside questions on the Padre contract to stay in San Diego Stadium 20 years as premature.

Earlier Bavasi said the decision would rest with C. Arnhold Smith, San Diego financier and major owner of the team. Smith paid $10 million for the franchise four years ago and has run in the red by $700,000 a year.

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Any single soul in search of a matrimonial mate ought to date at least six potential partners before choosing one. Such is the claim of a renowned expert on matters romantic. He cites the findings of sociologist E. W. Burgess. Fifty per cent of the unhappily married men admitted they'd enjoyed the company of almost no women friends before the weddings. Inexperience. That's what's blamed for the misery of these mismatched men.

THIS LONG HAIR on football players is nothing new, most report. Consider Pudge Heffelfinger of the great Yale team of 1888. He wore long hair. Like so many of his era. And no helmet. The hair was the head protector. Pudge suffered a slight shoulder injury. Just one, in 50 games.

AM ASKED TO name the most stupid of domesticated beasts. Hay to be the turkey. Do you know those birds can drown while drinking just because they haven't got enough brains to take their heads back out of the water?

FIRST CAFETERIA

Q. "First cafeteria was started up in Chicago, right?"
A. First skyscraper was built in Chicago. First cafeteria was opened in New York City in 1885. It was for men only, incidentally.

IT IS ALSO a statistical fact that more than 19 out of 20 short-term prisoners nationwide are in the pokies because of liquor. THE MARINE LIFE boys say the average sardine lives just about 14 years. SOUTHERNERS traditionally shoot off fireworks during the Christmas holidays. Northerners don't. AMONG CITIZENS 75 or older, the women outnumber the men by 156 to 100. JUST TWICE as much money is spent to cut down trees in national forests as is spent to replant them, sad to say.

SPEAKING OF TREES

Bright fellow, this proprietor of a summer resort in the Poconos. Whenever a bride and groom turns up at his place, he asks them to pick out a small tree which they admire. He then puts on said tree a silver plaque engraved with their names and the date. They come back, friend. Repeatedly. To see how their tree is doing.

FORTY YEARS AGO, three out of four physicians were general practitioners. Last year, one out of four was. Today, only one out of 50 medical school graduates goes into general practice. Unfortunate. What's needed is a whole batch of old-fashioned family doctors. How in the world can a physician diagnose a mother's chest pains if he isn't aware that her unmarried daughter is pregnant? Impossible.

New bus heater fails

KIMBERLY—The Kimberly School Board was faced with bus heating problems at the regular December meeting Tuesday night.

Bus driver Dale Vawter told the board that heating was insufficient in the district's new school bus, and that an additional heater would cost $143.

Board members agreed to test the heater after adjournment in order to determine cause of the inadequacy.

The resignation of Mrs. Phyllis Monroe, district secretary, was formally accepted by the board effective Dec. 11. New board secretary is Evelyn Jones.

The board agreed to hire Robert McDonald as coach for freshman basketball for the salary of $200. They also granted a request from Henry Hornbacher, music instructor, to attend a Northwest Music District workshop in Portland, Ore., during the week of Feb. 10-16. Hornbacher was asked to submit itemized expenses for the trip for the board's consideration.

Supt. Clinton Bugg and Principal William Box were directed to complete teacher evaluations by Dec. 19 so board members would have time to review the evaluations before the end of the first semester.

Supt. Bugg discussed an insurance proposal questionnaire received at Idaho State School Trustees Association meeting held recently in Boise.

The school insurance policy now in force is a "good one," Bugg said, however, board members agreed to answer the questionnaire and to consider any policy offered as a result.

Bugg also discussed recommendations of the ad hoc committee on public school formula funding and school district organization which met Monday in Twin Falls.

He questioned financial proposals made by the committee and board members agreed to keep close contact with state legislators on questions of changes in school financing procedures.

Tour stop

DIAMOND HEAD rises in the distance with Honolulu hotels dominating the shoreline of Waikiki in this aerial photograph. Honolulu will be one of several stops during the four-island Times-News sponsored Magic of Hawaii tour leaving Twin Falls Feb. 12.

Hawaiian tour proves popular

TWIN FALLS—Temperatures in Magic Valley have been dipping below zero and struggling to even get above that mark.

Daytime temperatures in Honolulu have been between 78 and 82 for the corresponding time.

This, according to Betty Kelker, tour hostess for the annual Times-News sponsored Magic of Hawaii air tour, is one of the many reasons the mid-winter break will prove popular.

The group of vacationers will leave Twin Falls Feb. 12 for the 10-day winter adventure. Popular in past years, the trip for 1973 is proving more popular than ever and, as a result, more than half the available spaces are taken right now.

"The four-island visitation will give tour participants the opportunity to see the best of Hawaii and at a price which would be impossible except through group touring," Mrs. Kelker said.

Full particulars of the tour, without obligation, will be mailed to anyone requesting. Requests can be directed to Mrs. Kelker, tour consultant at Magic Carpet Travels, Box MM, Twin Falls, or to O.A. Kelker, Times-News editor, Box 548, Twin Falls.

Kelker will represent the newspaper on this year's trip. Cost of the tour package has been set at $575 per person, sharing double rooms. This includes air fare from Twin Falls or Boise airports by Hughes Airways jet and Pan American Airways jet from the West Coast to the Islands.

Jet flights between the islands of Oahu, Hawaii, Maui and Kauai are also included. Transfer to and from airports, accommodations at selected hotels, sightseeing by motorcoach and special tours are included.

"After the cold spell in Magic Valley it might be hard to believe that in Hawaii light, summer-type casual clothing is just the thing. This will be true in February when we are there," Mrs. Kelker said.

TF unemployment fell to new low

TWIN FALLS—Unemployment in Twin Falls County fell to its lowest 1972 level in October, with only 2.1 per cent of the work force jobless.

A monthly bulletin published by the Department of Employment also indicated that the number of jobs declined in October as well, indicating that the year's peak employment came during September, instead of October, as had been expected.

The report prepared by Kenneth Hodge, Twin Falls analyst, said unemployment showed a drop of nearly one per cent over September, 1972, and a decrease of one and a half percentage points over a year ago.

But at the same time, the number of jobs in the county fell from 21,860 in September to 19,920 during October, a seven per cent dip although the figure for the month just completed represents an increase of 440 jobs over a year ago.

In effect, the report suggests that the area's most favorable employment month of the year, normally October, occurred in September this year, for a number of reasons.

They include an earlier cutback in food processing plants, offsetting the increased employment opportunities in the sugar processing industry, as well as a "premature seasonal slowdown" in the construction trades, services and domestic workers.

And, the monthly report states, while the per cent of the labor force unemployed dropped during October, the number of people filling unemployment claims increased over 11 per cent.

The bulk of the increased claims came from persons formerly employed in the seasonal tourist trade, the bulletin states.

Nearly one-third of those filing unemployment claims were between 25 and 34 years of age, and nearly 56 per cent of the claimants were women.

The report also reports that residential construction permits obtained during October totaled $131,500, an increase of $40,000 over a year ago, but a drop of slightly more than that amount from a month ago.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic; many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again. Anacin.

Each year doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast, minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours, even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

Eagles eligible for NESAs

TWIN FALLS—Men who have achieved the rank of Eagle Scout are now eligible to join the new National Eagle Scout Association.

According to Darl S. Gleed, Scout executive of the Snake River Area Council Boy Scouts of America, the new association provides the opportunity for all Eagle Scouts regardless of age, race, creed, or economic status, to retain an association with Scouting through service to the councils in which they live.

Filer item? Call Marjorie Liernan at 326-5454.

Nationally, of the 52 million members of the Boy Scouts of America since 1910, there have been over 700,000 Eagle Scouts. About 31,000 earned the award last year with a total of 75 in the Snake River Area Council which serves Magic and Wood River Valleys.

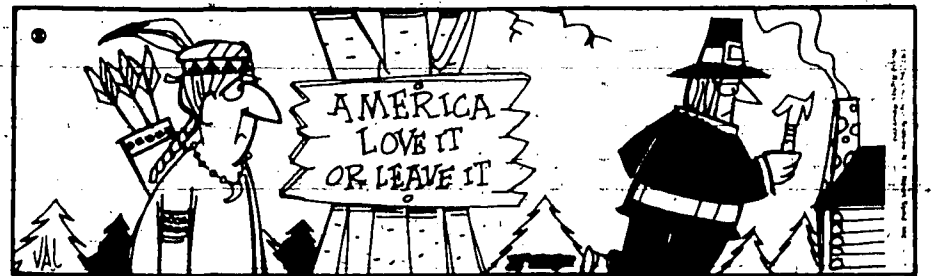

"When a boy earns the Eagle award and as he grows into adulthood, he wants to continue his active involvement with the national movement that has provided many of his enjoyable experiences," Gleed said.

Through the National Eagle Scout Association, the boy or man can reaffirm his pledge of service to others through Scouting.

LBj listens

STONEWALL, Tex. (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson follows the advice he said was given by an old woman in recuperating from his heart attack of last spring. "When I walks I sits loosely. When I sits I sits loosely. And when I feel a worry coming on, I just go to sleep," Johnson said the woman told him.

Kimberly receives revenue

KIMBERLY—Kimberly City Council members recorded a revenue sharing check for $5,681 in a Tuesday night meeting.

City clerk, Edythe Widmer, was instructed to invest the check in 90-day time certificates with the Kimberly Branch of Twin Falls Bank and Trust, pending council decisions on allocation of the funds.

The city will also deposit cash donations for moving of the Union Pacific Depot in an account with the same bank so that pledges now may be honored and all donations banked. Pledges and cash donations now total $920, according to Mrs. Widmer.

The final decision on bids for moving of the structure, which will become a city library and meeting hall, has not been reached.

Kimberly Mayor Von Nebeker read an invitation to the Kimberly Senior Citizens Center grand opening Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. Council members agreed to attend.

The council voted to contact the Association of Idaho Cities to learn procedures for requesting a re-census. Mrs. Widmer said that a survey sent out with water bills for November indicates that the population of Kimberly is about 1,831. The 1970 census showed a population of 1,547.

Joe Hanes of JUB Engineers Inc., Twin Falls, reported to the council on a recent meeting with the Twin Falls City Council on possible sewer tie-in between Kimberly and Twin Falls. He will meet with the Twin Falls council again on Monday for further discussion of the issue.

Beer, liquor and wine licenses for 1973 were renewed.
